

Terms and Conditions for Story and/or Photo Uploads

Before uploading a story and/or photo to our site, carefully read the following terms and conditions of use. Uploading any story and/or photo through this website constitutes your acceptance of the terms and conditions of use outlined herein.

1. Firstly, and most importantly, you MUST own the copyright of the story and/or image (i.e. you took the picture yourself or have the permission of someone else who took it to upload it).
2. By uploading a story and/or image to our website you are granting us license to use it for display on our website in any size or format, for any duration, and on any pages that we deem suitable. You are not transferring your copyright of the story and/or photograph in any way.
3. If we ever consider publishing your story and/or photo in any print media, we will contact you first for permission.
4. You should bear in mind that by uploading a story and/or image to our website, you are agreeing to indemnify us from any liability resulting from breaches of copyright of the story and/or image existing online on our website in digital form.
5. You acknowledge that you have sufficient written permission (if necessary) of any recognizable locations or people appearing in the photograph to be able to grant us permission to use it on our website.
6. You furthermore warrant that you are the parent or legal guardian or have obtained permission from the parent or legal guardian of any minors identifiable in the photograph.
7. You will not be compensated for uploading any story and/or photo. Uploaded stories and/or photos selected for display may be publicly viewable by any and all users and/or recipients of the website.
8. By uploading any story and/or photo for possible display on this website, you warrant that you are at least 18 years of age and otherwise able to enter into a binding contract under North Dakota State law.
9. We have no control over third-party use of stories and/or photos displayed on the website.
